

5 HURT IN CRASH NEAR EGG HARBOR

Three Philadelphians Injured When Trucks Meet in Head-On Collision

FARMER EXPECTED TO DIE

Five persons, three of them Philadelphians, were hurt last night when a farmer's two-ton motor truck crashed head-on into the five-ton truck of John Rocco, 2450 North Natrona street. The accident occurred on the White Horse pike near Egg Harbor, N. J.

Robert Lloyd, forty-five years old, Lynnwood, N. J., was the most seriously hurt. His skull is fractured and three ribs are broken. Physicians at the Atlantic City Hospital believe he will die.

The Philadelphians hurt are Mrs. Sarah Rocco, wife of the truck owner; Thomas Rocco, twelve years old, their son, and Charles Liebrecht, 2905 West Sedgley avenue, Rocco's chauffeur.

Mrs. Rocco was hurt about the hip. After treatment at the Egg Harbor Hospital, she was taken to her home in a taxicab. An X-ray will be made of her injury today. The boy was struck a glancing blow on the head. Liebrecht's hand was cut.

The fifth person injured is Hiram Lashley, Leeds Point, N. J., who was driving the lighter truck. He was cut and bruised.

Rocco, who carries freight between this city and New York, took a load of furniture to Atlantic City yesterday. He was returning home when the accident occurred at 9:30 P. M.

"My truck was making about fourteen miles an hour and was on the right side of the road," he said today. "I saw the other truck coming on the other side of the road."

"When the trucks were a few yards apart, the other swung to the left and drove, afterward said he had been doing and that he thought he saw a danger light ahead."

His truck, like all the big trucks on the New York run, has a red light on the side to indicate the size of the car. Lashley told police he thought this light was a lantern on the road.

JERSEY DEFAULTER LIES IN HOME GRAVE

Body of Garrison Back in Bridgeton After Death in Australia

William O. Garrison, former county controller for Cumberland County, N. J., who was long sought after he disappeared at the same time that $25,000 vanished from the county treasury, is buried in Bridgeton, his former home.

It has been learned that he died recently in Australia. How he was found and brought back to Bridgeton for burial is a mystery.

Police and private detectives searched every State and out-of-the-way places in South America and Mexico, but without avail. Nothing had been heard of him in the last twenty-one years, after the cash and a $50,000 bond which was given when he was elected disappeared.

A letter he left to his family told the truth about the shortage in his accounts. He had taken the money from the county during ten years previous to his departure.

Garrison died in Australia recently about penniless. Those who know how he was returned to his home for burial are guarding the secret closely.

WOMAN STABS BUTCHER

Uses Carving Knife When Rebuked for Profanity Near Children

Liberto Capo, sixty-five years old, of 251 East Rittenhouse street, was seriously stabbed with a butcher's knife by a Negro woman this morning after he had rebuked her and a companion for using profane language in front of school children.

The woman, Rachel Sheldon, 39 Armat street, was held in $1200 bail by Magistrate Lindell, pending the outcome of Capo's injuries. Her companion, Amanda Smith, East Haines street, was held in $600 bail. Capo was taken to the Germantown Hospital where, it was said, his condition is serious.

LAST DAY FOR TAXES

Third Installment Must Be in Uncle Sam's Pocket by Night

Today is the last day on which the third quarterly installment of the income tax can be paid, and clerks in the office of Collector of Internal Revenue McLaughlin, in the Federal Building, are being rushed by persons who have waited until the very last minute to settle with Uncle Sam.

After today an additional assessment will be levied on all delinquents. They will also be required to pay the fourth quarterly installment at once. Persons who pay the third installment today will be given until December 15 to pay the fourth installment.

"DRY" AGENT REINSTATED

Stiffler Sent to Punxsutawney After Discharge in Johnstown

C. R. Stiffler, a prohibition agent, who was removed from the service August 25 by John F. Davis, State Prohibition Director, following the "real beer" riot of Mayor Joseph Cauffman, of Johnstown, was reinstated today. He will assume charge of the prohibition enforcement office in Punxsutawney. The entire crew in Johnstown will also go to Punxsutawney.

Held for Larceny

Joseph T. Roma, 1422 South Eighth street, arrested yesterday by Detective Ryan for attempted larceny, was held in $600 bail today by Magistrate Coward, for a further hearing.

Roma said he saw Roma in front of a counter in a Market street department store, stuffing three shirts under his coat. The detective said Roma recognized him, dropped the shirts and hid in the store, the detective following. Roma returned another department store and Ryan arrested him.

"GET THE AMERICANS," NEW BATTLE CRY OVER EUROPE

Recent Continental Enemies Forget Past Differences in Drive for Tips, Say Indignant Returning Tourists

European countries are progressing more than any other section of the world in the promoting of tipping. Philadelphians who have just returned home say all sorts of means and stratagems are resorted to from the maître de hotel to the humble "hop" to extract the alluring dollar from American visitors. In fact, they're unanimous in declaring that the tipping business is worse here than before.

Among those just returned are Mrs. Henry Sheip, 6806 Lincoln drive, and her niece, Miss Mildred Landis, of Lawton avenue, Oak Lane.

"At the hotels and other public places," said Mrs. Sheip today, "they seem to believe that Americans are made of money, and evidently they're determined to get all of it they can."

"Aside from the tipping, the prices at some places are frightful. As an off-hand illustration, they charge for a slice of watermelon. In places where fruits are supposed to be in abundance it is impossible to obtain any unless an exorbitant price is paid."

"Methods resorted to for obtaining tips are often ludicrous. In several hotels we visited they displayed requesting guests not to tip the help. This was found to be merely a ruse—for there was no help from the help when a tip was not forthcoming."

"TOO TIRED TO WORK"

National Park Version of a Wilson Slogan Puts Man in Cell

Gloucester County has what it thinks is the laziest man in the State. When Deputy Sheriff Leap called at the home of John Simons at National Park yesterday to arrest him on a charge of non-support preferred by his wife, he found the man dead. Simons was aroused with difficulty.

Before Magistrate Gifford, at Woodbury, Simons said he could not hold a job because he always over slept.

"My, but am a hard sleeper," he testified. "A dozen alarm clocks could not awaken me until my nap is out."

As against the picture of her husband sleeping away the best part of the day, Mrs. Simons told how her four children had little to eat except bread and jelly.

She said she had preserved a few glasses of jelly for winter, a sister furnishing the bread. She explained that when she applied for work at a factory in Camden she was asked to send her husband around, and they would give him $20 a week. Simons was informed of that but refused to bestir himself saying he wanted $40.

Now the man is in Woodbury Jail on a charge of neglecting his family.

CAMDEN PLANT HIT BY $10,000 BLAZE

Firemen Have Hard Battle With Flames at Royal Cocoa Factory

ONE BUILDING IS DAMAGED

Fire swept the plant of the Royal Cocoa Company, Copeland and Haddon avenues, Camden, early today, causing damage of more than $10,000.

Four alarms were turned in by the firemen when the blaze, fed by large quantities of cocoa butter, began to spread rapidly.

The flames started at 5:50 o'clock in the rolling room of the plant, which is a six-story brick structure covering half an acre. It was first seen by John Dregar, an engineer, who ran to the engine room in the basement, tied down the whistle so that it set up a shriek and blast and then turned in the first alarm.

In a short time the fire had spread through the second story and through the roof. The noise of the whistle and the brilliant reflection in the sky attracted thousands. The firemen fought for an hour before overcoming the blaze in the rolling room and the section above.

"Traffic was blocked on Haddon avenue, and trolley cars, carrying persons on their way to work in Camden and this city, stood in a long line.

The plant is opposite the entrance to Hartlight Cemetery. The main office of the Royal Company are in Jersey City, where the plant burned down several years ago.

BRYAN TO QUIT TALKING

Leaves Lecture Platform to Spend Time With Invalid Wife

William J. Bryan has retired from the lecture field to remain with his invalid wife.

Mrs. Bryan is now at Hollywood, Calif., the victim of a baffling illness that renders her helpless. Mr. Bryan intends to pass as much time as possible at her bedside.

Away from the lecture platform, Mr. Bryan will devote much of his leisure moments to the completion of his memoirs, "A Child of Fortune." He also will make a few campaign speeches in the West in behalf of his brother, who is a candidate for Governor in Nebraska.
